Youth Development At the Y we believe all children deserve the opportunity to discover who they are and what they can achieve. By participating in values-based YMCA programs, 625,670 California youth and teens are advancing their learning, making smarter choices, getting healthy, and developing lifelong values of caring, honesty, respect and responsibility.

YMCAs collectively are the nation's largest provider of childcare. In California the Y works with 205 school districts and serves thousands of children every day in 992 childcare program sites located in schools, churches, YMCAs and other community based facilities. The Y offers families affordable, high quality and safe care for children in preschool through elementary school. Through scholarships, program subsidies, partnerships and community outreach the Y provides critical assistance to thousands of low-income families in the state. In addition to child care, California Ys serve over 200,000 school-age children and teens in before and after school programs and summer day and resident camps.

Healthy Living At the Y we are committed to helping people of all ages and abilities reach their full potential by engaging them in healthy activities. With a mission focused on healthy spirit, mind and body for all, we bring families closer together, encourage healthy choices, and foster community through fitness, sports, fun and common interests. The Y is a leader in involving children in sports and activities that instill values and develop healthy active habits for their futures. Last year 1,376,923 Californians were active and engaged participants of local YMCAs throughout the state.

Social Responsibility At the Y, we believe it is our responsibility to be active in local affairs, and participate with others to address community issues and concerns. We provide $23 million in financial assistance and partner with numerous organizations throughout the state. As a result we help strengthen communities and support our neighbors. For more than 160 years, Ys in California have been helping people develop themselves through education and training, creating local jobs, encouraging volunteerism, pursuing diversity and building healthier communities through collaborations. YMCAs employ more than 40,300 Californians in full-time and part-time jobs, and 16,345 Californians volunteer at local Ys.
